

Horton International | North America Moves to Invenias to Support Growth Ambitions

Premier search firm selects Invenias as the platform to support and grow its business

London, July 27 2017

Invenias, the leading cloud-based platform for executive and strategic hiring, announced today that Horton International | North America has successfully transitioned to the Invenias Platform to support its growing business. Horton NA, the founding partner of Horton Group International Limited, is a global boutique retained executive search and advisory firm, offering the reach, depth and diverse expertise of a large international firm, combined with the individual attention and client focus of a specialist firm.

Horton NA provides senior-level executive recruitment across all functions, for organizations ranging from the Fortune 50 to middle market firms to startups with a focus on the industrial and advanced manufacturing; health care services and health care information technology; life sciences, med devices and biotech; and financial services and FinTech sectors.

Joshua Hollander, President and CEO commented, "Throughout our four-decade history, we have maintained a dedicated focus on our clearly defined mission: to empower great leaders to build dream teams. We define that success through our proven record of search execution, consistently placing star performers who become invaluable, strategic additions to our clients' senior management teams. We see Invenias as fundamental to our continued success."

The Horton client and candidate database has been developed over the past 40 years; with Invenias users can access their network and leverage talent intelligence, all from within the familiar environment of Microsoft Outlook.

Hollander continued, "The Invenias platform will improve our ability to collaborate across the company and help reduce search times, improve our service to our clients and ultimately allow us to enhance our efficiencies and maintain our ROI proposition. Invenias' superior pipeline management capability enables us to build strategic pipelines for our clients. We believe Invenias is the foundation to support the continued growth of Horton NA."

David Grundy, CEO, Invenias said, "We are delighted that a firm with the caliber of Horton NA has chosen to run their business on the Invenias platform. By complementing their strong personal relationships with the smart use of technology they will be able to augment their service delivery and achieve greater efficiencies and effectiveness throughout their search process. We continue to invest in our platform to ensure we're helping our clients like Horton stay one step ahead of the curve."
