

Invenias announced as one of The 20 Most Promising HR Technology Solution Providers 2016

Recognition of impressive growth in new customers using Invenias for in-house strategic hiring teams

7 July 2016

Invenias, the leading cloud-based platform for executive and strategic hiring, has announced today that US-based magazine CIOReview has listed Invenias as one of the 20 Most Promising HR Technology Solution Providers 2016.

Such recognition follows impressive growth in the number of companies who are using the Invenias platform to enable their internal executive and strategic hiring teams to identify and recruit the best talent for executive and strategically important positions. Tiffany Raymond, Director, Executive Search at Tesla Motors commented: "Invenias has enabled our leadership recruiting team significantly and is the best executive recruiting database and tool we have ever used. It is intuitive, quick, and a great way to keep track of our projects and people. The customer support is awesome and we're looking forward to leveraging it more deeply over time."

Jeevan George, Managing Editor of CIOReview said: "We are pleased to recognize Invenias as one of the 20 Most Promising HR Technology Solution Providers 2016. Invenias' proven track record of successful client deployments in the in-house executive search arena demonstrates its prowess by offering world best-in-class technology that helps organizations to identify and recruit the best talent."

Founded in 2005, Invenias has pioneered an intuitive cloud-based platform for executive search that has seen it become the largest company providing software specifically for executive search firms and in-house executive recruiting teams. For the last five years it has reported year-on-year growth that has significantly outpaced the market and has 750 customers in its portfolio with offices across the UK, Europe, US, and Asia Pacific.

David Grundy, CEO, Invenias commented: "Hiring the best talent for executive and strategic positions is the greatest enabler of success and competitive advantage for any organization. Failure to do so can be catastrophic to a business. As a company we strive to ensure that we're constantly innovating in order to ensure that our clients stay ahead of the game, that's an approach that has really resonated with the in-house executive recruiting market. We are absolutely delighted to be recognized by CIOReview as one of 2016's 20 most promising HR technology solution providers."
